The Ban on Banning Books should be passed. We all know where censorship leads. My local branch library has a yearly display of books that have been banned, most of which are classics.

Banning books makes the hairs on my neck stand up.

This should not be a "study bill" but a bill that passes into law.

Here are some of my bona fides--I am a retired lawyer, a supporter of my local library, and an avid reader.

I have adult children and 5 grandchildren. I don't want anyone deciding what I can or cannot read and more importantly, deciding what my grandchildren can and can't read.

Thank you for taking my testimony into consideration.
