BACKGROUND:

Oregon law allows a business or enterprise to apply to the Certification Office for Business Inclusion and Diversity (COBID) for certification as a disadvantaged business enterprise, a minority-owned business, a woman-owned business, a business that a service-disabled veteran owns, or an emerging small business. Public contracting agencies are to consider these certifications in certain public contracting opportunities.

The Oregon Business Development Department (department) has many responsibilities, one of which is coordinating state and federal economic and community development programs. The Oregon Business Development Commission (Commission) provides oversight and direction to the department. The Commission consists of nine members, with most members serving four year terms.

Senate Bill 569 directs the Oregon Business Development Department (department) to establish a program to provide grants to qualified nonprofit or community-based organizations that assist businesses in becoming certified by the Certification Office for Business Inclusion and Diversity (COBID) as minority-owned businesses.
