BACKGROUND:

On May 25, 2023, Tyler v. Hennepin County was a unanimous U.S. Supreme Court decision in favor of Tyler (598 U.S. 631). The Court decided counties which foreclose on property to repay delinquent property taxes can’t take more property than what is owed (Takings Clause of U.S. Constitution’s 5th amendment).

Under current Oregon law, counties are not required to pay former owners the surplus proceeds of property tax foreclosure sales. After a county is reimbursed for delinquent property taxes and other allowable costs, it may elect to distribute surplus proceeds to taxing districts. County allowable costs include the redemption penalty and fee, property maintenance and supervision, and legal costs.

HB 4056 (2024) required counties to establish a process to comply with Tyler v. Hennepin County, suspended the deeding of property to counties before January 1, 2026, required the Department of Revenue to coordinate a work group with county tax officers and interested parties, and submit a report to the Legislature by September 15, 2024, which sets forth recommendations for legislation.

On April 23, 2024, Linn County Circuit Court dismissed the case Western States Land Reliance Trust vs. Linn County. The court held that since Oregon’s statute is silent on the disposition of surplus proceeds and the plaintiff did not redeem the property or file an answer to the 2008 foreclosure judgement, the County’s retention of surplus proceeds was not a violation of the Takings Clause. An appeal was filed in the Oregon Court of Appeals on May 1, 2024. On January 24, 2025, Linn County motioned for the case to be certified to the Oregon Supreme Court, and Western States Land Reliance Trust joined in the motion on January 27.
