BACKGROUND:

In Oregon, an estimated 15% of the population five years and older speak a language other than English at home and an estimated 5.5% of the population five years and older report speaking English less than "very well" (Legislative Policy and Research Office Language Access Services). In 2023, the State of Oregon approved $2 million to Pueblo Unido PDX to support the development of language proficiency evaluation mechanisms for Indigenous languages. The State additionally appropriated $500,000 to Oregon Worker Relief to compensate interpreters of "languages of limited diffusion" (2023-25 Budget Highlights).

House Bill 2976 appropriates funds to Pueblo Unido PDX and Oregon Worker Relief to support Indigenous language interpretation.
