BACKGROUND:

The Oregon Liquor and Cannabis Commission (OLCC) oversees access to alcohol and cannabis products in Oregon through education, regulation, and distilled spirits distribution. In 2014, Oregon Measure 91 legalized recreational marijuana for people 21 years and older. The measure also put OLCC in charge of regulating the recreational marijuana industry. Under current law, OLCC must adopt rules to regulate and prohibit advertising and packaging marijuana products in ways that are attractive to minors. House Bill 3724 expands on these requirements, specifying that OLCC must adopt rules preventing advertising and packaging that is likely to cause minors to unlawfully possess or consume marijuana or cannabinoid items. It also requires them to adopt rules describing objective criteria of packaging that would cause minors to unlawfully possess or consume these items.
