- Prohibits OHA from releasing data collected under the section regarding tribal affiliation unless the release of that data is allowed by a written data use agreement entered into by the affected tribe.

BACKGROUND:

House Bill 2134 (2013) directed OHA and ODHS to standardize the collection of demographic data on race, ethnicity, language, and disability (REALD). REALD includes standardized data collection categories and survey questions. These standards support the collection of consistent data across all Oregon data systems and are used to measure and compare services and health disparities statewide. REALD data collection does not currently include questions about tribal affiliation.

Oregon is home to nine federally recognized American Indian tribes, including: the Burns Paiute Tribe; Confederated Tribes of the Coos, Lower Umpqua, and Siuslaw Indians; Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde; Confederated Tribes of Siletz Indians; Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation; Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs; the Cow Creek Band of Umpqua Tribe of Indians; the Coquille Tribe; and the Klamath Tribes of the Klamath, Modoc, and Yahooskin. These sovereign nations have powers to protect the health and safety of their members and to govern their own lands and maintain formal government-to-government relations with state and federal governments.

Senate Bill 835 directs OHA and ODHS to work with the nine federally recognized American Indian tribes in Oregon to adopt rules and standards pertaining to the collection, storage, and use of tribal affiliation data as part of the collection of REALD data.
