Section 6:

Declares an emergency effective on passage.

BACKGROUND:

SECTION 1.

Criminal process authorizing or commanding the seizure or production of documents, records, or other things may be issued to a recipient, regardless of whether the requested items or recipient of process are located within this state. Oregon statute requires the recipient of the process to produce materials to provide, along with the materials requested, an affidavit or declaration as to their authenticity and include in the affidavit the contact information for the custodian. House bill 2473 would remove the requirement that the contact information for the custodian be provided and instead that the affidavit include the identity of the custodian of the produced materials.

SECTION 2.

A law enforcement agency may not use forensic imaging to obtain information contained in a portable electronic device except pursuant to a search warrant or as authorized by lawful consent. House bill 2473 would add a search warrant exception to apply when the user of the device is deceased, and the death is the subject of investigation.

SECTION 3.

Under ORS 133.619, a warrant authorizing the installation or tracking of a mobile tracking device may only be issued when probable cause exists to believe that an individual is committing or is about to commit certain crimes as specified in the statute. House bill 2473 would authorize a warrant to be issued when probable cause exists to believe that the defendant has already committed the crimes specified by the statute.

SECTION 4.

After an indictment has been issued from grand jury proceedings the audio recording of the grand jury proceedings may be released only in the manner prescribed in ORS 132.270. Currently, a district attorney may only provide a copy to the defense attorney of all audio recordings after 10 days have passed since the defendant's arraignment and no protective order concerning the recording has been requested. House bill 2473 would allow a prosecuting attorney, within 10 days after the arraignment, to file with the court a certification of the decision not to seek a protective order for the recording and to immediately provide a copy of the audio recordings to the defense attorney.

SECTION 5.

When a defendant violates a condition of release and the violation constitutes a new criminal offense, the court shall cause the defendant to be taken back into custody and shall order the defendant held pending trial without release. If the violation does not constitute a new criminal offense, the court may order the defendant to be taken back into custody and may order the defendant held pending trial or may make a new release decision. House bill 2473 would amend this provision to allow the court, in cases where a defendant is charged with a violent felony and violates a condition of release, to conduct the inquiry required by ORS 135.240(4)(a), if the state requests the defendant be denied release based on the violation.

SECTION 6.

Upon failure of a person to comply with any condition of a release agreement or personal recognizance, the court having jurisdiction may, in addition to any other action provided by law, issue a warrant for the arrest of the person at liberty upon a personal recognizance, conditional or security release. House bill 2473 would provide that after the person is returned to custody, the court may make a new release decision except as otherwise provided in ORS 135.240.
