“To move forward, DOC must create dedicated leadership roles for women’s services, stabilize staffing, revamp training and culture, prioritize investment in women-centered services, and partner more intentionally with community organizations. Immediate and sustained efforts are needed to improve outcomes for incarcerated women and their families.”

AN ACT

Relating to pregnancy in correctional facilities; and prescribing an effective date.

Whereas, over the past several decades, the number of women incarcerated in the United States has increased nearly 650 percent, with over 200,000 women currently in a correctional facility; and

Whereas the United States Department of Justice estimates that between 5 and 10 percent of female adults in custody are pregnant at the time of incarceration; and

Whereas approximately 68,000 children in Oregon have or have had an incarcerated parent; and

Whereas, compared to women in the general population, pregnant incarcerated women have a higher risk of poor birth outcomes, including preterm birth (birth prior to 37 weeks of gestation) and small-for-gestational-age babies (below the 10th percentile for babies born at the same gestational age); and

Whereas incarceration impacts more than a mother's pregnancy in that the separation of incarceration causes a disruption in the parent-child bond, which can lead to insecure attachment and cause a variety of adverse outcomes; and

Success through Partnership

Charlotte Thrasher, new CCCF Superintendent

“I am honored to join the Oregon Department of Corrections and am thankful for the opportunity to continue my commitment to improving the lives of incarcerated women by leading enhancement of trauma and gender practices. I am excited to work side by side with the staff at CCCF as we build this initiative together.”

Ways and Means Public Testimony

“I was incarcerated for 5 years at Coffee Creek. At first, I took my sentence as a punishment. Then I realized that I could use that time as an opportunity to change my life for the better if given the right opportunity.

U-PACT was that chance. Not only did they teach me the ways of the trades, but they set me up for success. I was released July 5, 2024, and went straight to work...this program changed my life.”

-Ashley Lautenschlager

Ways and Means Public Testimony

“I was incarcerated at Coffee Creek for 30 months and released in November 2023. I was able to leave incarceration with a career as a paralegal.

Now that I’m on the other side of incarceration and able to assist adults in custody who are swimming in the tumultuous waters of reintegration, it is the most fulfilling work I’ve ever found.”

- Stephanie Davis

Ways and Means Public Testimony

“There are tons of excellent programs – job training, coping skills, learning how to manage life on the outside once you’re released. There’s just not enough funding to expand these programs. We need the AICs to have the opportunity to enter those programs that will give them job skills and confidence to move forward.”

- Alicia Humbert

Ways and Means Public Testimony

“While I was incarcerated, I was able to become a certified recovery mentor, peer wellness specialist and I was also the first woman to achieve their bachelor’s degree through [PSU] while incarcerated ... Everything that I did in there gave me the foundation to be successful and that’s why I sit here today and speak to you on behalf of the DOC.”

- Michelle Ehlers
