

SB 686 STAFF MEASURE SUMMARY

Senate Committee On Rules

Prepared By: Leslie Porter, LPRO Analyst

Meeting Dates: 4/9, 4/23

WHAT THE MEASURE DOES:

The measure requires, for use of digital journalism providers' content, certain online platforms (covered platforms) to compensate digital journalism providers in one of three ways: either pay digital journalism providers an amount to be determined, enter into an arbitration process to determine the percentage of advertising revenue to be paid to digital journalism providers, or donate an amount to be determined to the Oregon Civic Information Consortium (OCIC). It establishes the arbitration process. It creates the OCIC, establishes its mission, and its membership.

Detailed Summary

Digital Journalism Provider compensation

- Requires that the amount to be determined to be paid by covered platforms to be adjusted for inflation, according the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers, West Region
- Requires that digital platform providers spend at least 70% of funds received from any of the three methods to be spent on news journalists and support staff.
- Prohibits a digital journalism provider from being denied compensation on the basis that it publishes or provides content, in part or in whole, in a language other than English.

OCIC

- Created to advance research and innovation in media and technology
- Requires the OCIC to award grants for applicants that seek to improve civic information
- Requires each Oregon public university to participate in the OCIC
- Establishes an 11-member Board of Directors

Other

- Prohibits covered platforms from retaliating against digital journalism providers.
- Requires covered platforms to compile and post a list of online journalism providers that were accessed during the preceding 12 months, and provide that list to digital journalism platforms, upon request.
- Requires online platforms to report annually certain information about compensation paid to digital journalism providers.

BACKGROUND:

At the federal level, in 2022, the Journalism and Preservation Act of 2022 (S.673) attempted to set a process through which certain broadcast or digital news providers may collectively negotiate with covered online platforms regarding use of the news providers' content by the platforms. While the bill was passed out of two committees, it was place on the Senate Calendar and a vote was not taken.

At the state level, in 2024, the California Journalism Preservation Act (AB 886) attempted to establish two mechanisms through which digital journalism providers could obtain compensation from large online platforms for the value that the platforms derive from accessing the digital journalism providers' website and other digital services. While the bill passed the Assembly, it was in a Senate Committee upon adjournment sine die.

New Jersey has the first in the nation Civic Information Consortium, with a mission to provide financial resources to support and grow trustworthy, community-based news and information sources throughout the state. It was established in 2018 and is an independent, 501c(3) nonprofit organization. According to the Consortium, it reimagines how public funding can be used to address the growing problem of news desert, misinformation, and support more informed communities. Its website states that to date, more than $7.5 million have been awarded in more than 80 grants to over 50 organizations in 16 of the state's 21 counties. It brings together the six universities to address the lack of access to local news and information. It is eligible for state funding and can also obtain private funds. It has a 16-member Board of Directors.
