BACKGROUND:

In 2023, the Legislative Assembly enacted Senate Bill 619, the Oregon Consumer Privacy Act, that provides new rights to consumers and responsibilities for persons or companies (“controllers”) who, in a calendar year, control or process the data of 100,000 or more consumers, or 25,000 consumers if more than 25 percent of their revenue is from selling personal data.

SB 619 (2023) requires a controller to conduct and document data protection assessments, and to specify in its privacy notice the express purpose for which the personal data is collected and processed, the categories of data that are collected, the categories of third parties to whom data is disclosed, the name under which the controller is registered to do business in the state, and how a consumer may exercise their rights and appeal a controller's decision. Controllers may not process data that is not reasonably necessary or compatible with purposes specified in the controller’s privacy notice, process sensitive data without consent and compliance with data protections for children, or process data for targeted advertising without consent for consumers between 13 and 15 years of age.

The controller also must provide the consumer with an effective means to revoke consent with the same ease with which it was given. Under the measure, a consumer has the right to know and control how their personal data is used, including the ability to

- confirm whether the controller is processing the data;
- request the categories of personal data processed;
- request a list of third parties to whom the data has been disclosed;
- receive a copy of the data;
- require the controller to correct some types of inaccuracies;
- delete the data; and

- opt out of data use for targeted advertising, sale of the personal data, or profiling for certain purposes.

Most large motor vehicle manufacturers are already subject to the Oregon Consumer Privacy Act because they collect more than 100,000 consumer's data. House Bill 3875 includes all manufacturers and any affiliates who process personal data to be subject to the Oregon Consumer Privacy Act.
