BACKGROUND:

The Alcohol and Drug Policy Commission (ADPC) is tasked with improving the effectiveness and efficiency of state and local substance use disorder (SUD) prevention, treatment, and recovery services for Oregonians. The ADPC is currently in the process of developing its next five-year plan for Oregon for 2026-2030, using committees aligned with the "continuum of care" (prevention, harm reduction, youth, treatment, and recovery) to focus on solutions within those areas. The ADPC partners with 14 state agencies to help implement its statewide plan.
