I had a supervisor who was not a nurse who did not understand that I can not delegate to a staff member who can not demonstrate a competent skill set in caring for a diabetic in the school setting. It was very difficult to get buy in for the care of the student in a safe and effective manner. A nurse would understand that my license is on the line as is the safety of the student and I do have the right to refuse to delegate diabetic cares when a staff member can not do math which was the case in this situation.
