I work in the trucking industry, therefore, have a good understanding of how the new emissions regulations will affect ALL Oregonians in a negative manner. The majority of those involved in trucking, other than the large fleets, are unaware of the new regulations that are upon them. These regulations will put thousands out of work in the state. Many smaller trucking companies do not have the newer compliant trucks, nor could they afford to upgrade to newer equipment. The new regulations also make it virtually impossible to purchase new trucks given the diesel to EV ratio requirements. A lose, lose situation for those involved in trucking.
