If someone spends THEIR money to win/purchase a ticket they should be able to do what they want with it.

Many people sell their tickets for many reason. They don't have the time to take off work to drive to the lottery office, or the extra money for gas and food to drive up there or a vehicle that will make it. They need their money now.

If you mail a lottery ticket, it can't be insured. What happens if it gets lost? People dont want to risk it. When it does make it, It then takes about 2 weeks for the whole process. Most people who gamble can't wait that long they are living paycheck to paycheck.
