Here in Oregon the timelines for the implementation of such critical infrastructure of our trucks and equipment create hardship not only for the trucking industry, but the agricultural industry and many other industries that are here in the state of Oregon.

For most people if they looked at the two hurricanes that hit Florida South Carolina North Carolina and up the East Coast should be a wake-up call for all too look at what the electricity did back there when their storms hit. And what about our fires we have had over the last few years and down in California in the LA area.

I don't believe you saw too many Electric trucks or equipment being used to get their system back online many people back there still don't have power. Let along with the hurricanes were there very many electric fire trucks bulldozers up fighting fires.

So how can you implement something so short-sighted as this act is,trying to force people into getting electric trucks. When you The State of Oregon, don't have the infrastructure in our own state to support it, let alone anywhere else in the country.

Oregon as well as most if any States still don't have the infrastructure and it'll be several years before it's there. If ever!

I think it's called putting the cart before the horse.

Hopefully somebody can look at this in a positive way, while I'm not against fixing and helping our carbon emissions.

However we need to do it responsibly and help get the infrastructure in before you implement these harsh regulations that impact not just the trucking industry but all Industries within the state of Oregon. The agricultural industry will just put another on cost that makes farming harder & harder to keep our heads above water where we can keep producing affordable food and other products to to feed our own state let alone bring dollar to our state

So hopefully you will look HB 3119 and support the delay until we get the infrastructure in place that won't put such large burdens on the people in our state ,who can afford what not delaying this will cause.

Please put a clause in a the Legislation until the infrastructure is actually in place that can support it.
before this act is imposed upon people of the state of Oregon HB3119 is a start thank you for your time.
