I have been financially supporting the Oregon Flora project for years and would be very excited if the State of Oregon supported this extremely valuable effort. Wise policy decisions are made from a maximum of knowledge and a minimum of guesswork. The botanical knowledge this work is expanding is an investment in future good decisions, not to mention a crucial indicator for meeting the challenges climate change is reeking. Making this up-to-date info accessible in electronic form is a bonus for our time. Thank you.
