RE: Support for HB 2792

To the House Committee On Labor and Workplace Standards,

If hospitals can afford to allow their staff to strike. Then they can AFFORD to tell the public what they are spending to staff the hospitals during a strike. If they committed to fair bargaining then healthcare workers wouldn't have to strike. Clearly they are not! One could argue the money the strike costs would cover the difference in bargaining.

Thank you for accepting my testimony and I look forward to your support.
