Requiring a hospital to report the amount the hospital spends for individuals to replace employees involved in a strike or lockout is called transparency. We need transparency in our lives when viable means are questioned. When workers strike for adequate compensation against an employer that is willing to outsource instead of offer competitive wages and safe standards transparency should be required. It is a reflection necessary to understand the means to which a company is willing to go to not meet the employees at their demand. A reflection the company needs to see and be accountable for.
