I support this bill. Hospitals waste a tremendous amount of money to keep the nurses that work for them out and then often delay or refuse as long as they can to negotiate in good faith. By making this information public the community can see the tactics a hospital will go to in order to avoid negotiations. The community deserves to know all the business practices hospital corporations use in their day to day business. This will keep hospitals accountable for their spending. This is even more important for any hospital that claims to be a non-profit business. Their non-profit status automatically gives them credit for good practices when they may not be.
