

The cat population has decimated deer and elk populations. More and more people are having issues with cats killing livestock and pets. They must be controlled.