

Hi, my name is Jared Standley. I've lived in Oregon my whole life, enjoyed the outdoors and live taking my utv places in Oregon. Not only do I use it for recreational purposes but also farming and things of that matter. I think that utvs should be made street legal for highway and residential roads. It's a lot easier being able to jump in my rZR and start it and drive a few miles down the road to check cattle rather than hook and trailer up and load and un load my rZR. Or when driving it in the mountains and having to load it up to drive across the highway to a different gravel road. Other states have them street legal and there's isn't a reason that we can't have them. They are so versatile, from driving down to have lunch with a friend to farming, and having fun on the weekend.
