I STRONGLY OPPOSE

Democrats' policies use "color of law" to influence but draw away from the reality. It's hard to believe they have the slightest interest in protecting children from abuse. This bill adds to court consequences for consideration, as a required minimum if a gun is present (displayed). A lot of damage can be done to a child with bear hands, but it singles out a firearm. They are aiming at parenting rights generally, if a parent owns a firearm. They may only be screaming at an unruly child but if a firearm is visible in a display case, they get no consideration from the judge for the circumstances.

The nanny state policies have to stop.
