To all concerned. I have been a racer at PIR since the early seventies. Since 2007 I have not missed a wednesday night at the race track. I have many members of my family that are there with me every week. This is a hobby that we really enjoy. I am now in my early seventies and i would think that if leaded fuel being used at the track was bad for your health it would have certainly affected me by now. I believe this is just another under handed ploy to shut down PIR because it isn't a hobby that people living nearby enjoy or understand. I also believe it is just another way of shutting down the use of fossil fuels. I don't understand why politicians would want to shut down one of the only parks that actually makes money. Every person who races at PIR have spent hundreds of dollars to their vehicles to comply with the noise limit that is imposed at PIR which is the only track that I am aware of that has such restrictions. I hope that you can understand that shutting down this track would only hurt the racers and has been proven that the use of leaded fuel is not affecting anyone in the surrounding neighborhood. By the way the prevailing wind that most always blows at the track blows anything from the track towards the east away from the neighborhood to the south. Thankyou Gregg Heriford
