I am firmly against changes to the text. There is a difference between " Militias " and National Guard. The Constitution of the United States provides for the acceptance and need for Militia in the US. The people have the right to form a Militia for the protection of our sovereignty and Constitutional Republic. The guard nor a standing army have anything to do with that nor should they. Civilians have the right to form, use, train,stock etc a militia and that is not going to change regardless of any rules or vocabulary you choose to change.
