Particularly in our current federal political climate, it is more important than ever to recognize the Drag community, specifically of Black Drag artists during Black History Month. Celebrating our Black LGBTQIA+ family is the best way to combat censorship, demonization, and historical erasure taking place in our country. As an Oregonian, I hope for my home to be a welcoming place for all. It is the very least we can do given our state's early history. Acknowledging and uplifting our community members who fight for equality, justice, and inclusion costs us nothing, yet enriches our culture.
