I SUPPORT [SB 548].

If you let them, get married at eighteen (18) you got to lower the drinking age to eighteen(18).

If you lower the drinking age to eighteen (18), they just might get a headache and put the marriage shindig off a while and save a myriad of future and almost certain additional headaches.

David S. Wall

Mr. Oregon Concurs and says, "My Father-in-law served in the U.S. Navy. He asked me one day, after several years of me being married to his daughter, "How things were going on with your apparent blissful union." I replied in Naval terms, "Pearl Harbor was the first day that will live in infamy. The second day that will live in infamy is when I married your daughter." Well, my remark didn't set to well with my Father-in-law and as he frowned, with raised eyebrows, he controlled his speech and asked me to explain myself. Whereupon I said the following, "At Pearl Harbor, those ships got sunk once, I get torpedoed every damn day." He just laughed and said, "Son you're out of luck." I replied, "Don't you know it." However, my saintly wife puts up with me so I guess I'm lucky after all.
