

Submitter:

Jerry Carlson

On Behalf Of:

Committee:

Senate Committee On Judiciary

Measure, Appointment or Topic:

SB176

If the State of Oregon is going to FORCE employers to allow drug use on the job, are they going to nullify responsibility of those employers for accidents, injuries or fatalities for those workers who injure or kill others? If NOT, why Not? You want to tie their hands and potentially endanger fellow workers and the public at large. Have you even had a brain cell of thought to the repercussions of your actions? You going to allow TriMet drivers to get high?, Airline Pilots? Truck Drivers?

Why shouldn't a victim of this policy take up arms and hunt down the officials who foisted this irresponsible law upon the innocent public?

Why shouldn't they at least be able to file a civil and criminal law suit against these officials if the public is harmed?

I used to work in the steel industry.

Forklift drivers, crane operators, heavy machinery operators, and even those loading and securing loads on trucks all pose a risk to others.

Who in the HELL thinks that's a Good Idea?