I am appauled at the death culture in Oregon. I can't even fathom the thought of pushing any person into killing themselves. Let's call it what it is. As the medical fields stance is, assisted suicide is kind thing to do, by offering someone who may have ailing health or in some cases some form of pain. The medical fields belief is they are offering a much needed service. More like, you are taking a bed, taking up space and you are no longer of value, so you need to die. I truly pray for the convextion of God to lay hold of your heart, before it's too late.
