Here's Why I Support Eelgrass Action Bill (HB 3580): Eelgrass meadows are valuable nurseries for juvenile fish including salmon, herring, and shellfish species that are so important for our coastal economy. They also support biodiversity including migratory birds like the Black Brant. Eelgrass can sequester carbon faster than many terrestrial habitats and it improves water quality. However eelgrass is declining and we currently don't know why. Passing this bill would set up a Taskforce to set eelgrass conservation targets, assess monitoring programs, and evaluate policy barriers through a collaborative effort involving agencies, Tribes, scientists, local communities, and others. This action toward caring for eelgrass is important to me because I believe a strong and healthy environment is vital.
