We need our state forester to set sustainable goals for harvesting our timber land.

Proper forest management creates good jobs. Helps rural communities. Ensures we have quality timber to use for building and infrastructure.

Sustainable timber harvesting is essential to ensure we replant and have young trees growing where some old forests once grew and turned into fire hazards.

Timber harvesting, thinning, and proper management cleans our forest floors of under brush, dead dry limbs etc and helps keep easy to burn fuel in check.

Proper harvesting creates new forest roads, fire roads, landings and access to our timber properties and sets the stage for easier access for when fires do happen giving better access and ability for our first response teams, volunteer teams, etc to save our forests and people's houses and lives
