

Submitter: Jane Civiletti

On Behalf Of:

Committee: Senate Committee On Energy and Environment

Measure, Appointment or Topic: SB635

Having OSU (Oregon State Univ) perform a feasibility study for small modular nuclear reactors is NOT an unbiased organization to do such work. OSU helped develop NuScale's nuclear reactor designs and holds equity in the company. How on earth can this be an reasonable option in the analysis of the feasibility of energy options for the state? Knowing more about the functionality than any other group does not make it right.