Many Oregon's businesses and families are currently struggling. Oregon is already an expensive place to live and do business. The last thing that we need is an another tax that will raise our costs of living or doing business. This will only cause more businesses to consider moving out of state, making it even tougher on the families and businesses remaining. Maybe we should be considering cutting our spending rather than increasing taxes. It is time that our elected officials realize that they cannot tax us into prosperity.
