Rocky habitats mitigate the effect of wave action, are nurseries for fish and crustaceans, provide nutrients for birds and mammals, and provide an environment for kelp (you want sea otters, you need kelp.) Not least is the amazing beauty of rocky habitats that draws tourists to Oregon shores.

Please, please, in these times of concerted federal ignorance, show that we in Oregon care about our planet, our country, and, in particular, the health of our coast. And support a bill that supports healthy rocky habitats.
