

Submitter: Jonathan Lin

On Behalf Of:

Committee: House Committee On Climate, Energy, and Environment

Measure, Appointment or Topic: HB3081

Speaking for myself, I've found it to be a nightmare to navigate the different ambiguous structures around home energy efficiency upgrades, and there has to be a better way. Even as an informed consumer, it's difficult to make use of the incentives, and that means folks that are just casually aware, or especially unaware, stand almost no chance of leveraging these advantages. That is to nobody's benefit.