Teenagers shouldn't even be allowed to vote in a regular election. They are still developing emotionally, mentally, and physically. Kids are still learning about politics in school and are not wise enough to understand the consequences of their votes and more vote by pure pressure, what's popular, the commercials on tv and by emotions. They don't have the time research and don't have enough life experience to make decisions for those of us who do. Keep our kids, kids. Quite trying to manipulate them and groom them into adulthood early.
