Yet another tax on a necessary item for the average American's daily life. What is next, taxes on all new shoes because they cause the same "environmental damage"? Why can't we examine the budget and audit ourselves? Surely we can make up the money some other way. Your chief concern with this proposal shouldn't be how much you are going to make off taxing tire sales, it's if folks will now hold onto their tires long past the due date and cause an accident.
