City View Charter School in Hillsboro provides a hands-on, project-based education that helps students think critically and grow into engaged citizens. Its innovative approach supports diverse learning styles, giving students the confidence and skills to succeed.

Despite its impact, City View operates with less funding per student than traditional public schools. Increased funding would expand programs, improve facilities, and provide more resources, ensuring more students benefit from this high-quality education.

Investing in City View strengthens both its students and the Hillsboro community. Every child deserves access to an education that inspires and prepares them for the future.
