Oregon Department of Forestry presentation show that they negligent in recognizing that they are partially responsible for wildfires in our state.

The ODF is not managing its forest to optimize its sustainable yield. Couple this with the terrible Habitat Conservation Plan and we have a recipe for disaster in our state.

The ODF needs to sit down and really consider what their priorities are. They need to have a better forest management plan that ensures that trees will still be around for future generations, instead of burnt out forestlands.
