As someone who has been going to see live music since I was a kid it's been really difficult to continue to support these local arts. Online resellers are grabbing so many tickets before actual people even get a chance to buy them. These same sellers then inflate the prices to a crazy amount. I don't even go to large concerts anymore because it's near impossible to get a ticket at the original price. Please help ban these companies from abusing the market and artificially inflating prices.
