

Submitter: William Burt
On Behalf Of:
Committee: House Committee On Judiciary
Measure, Appointment or Topic: HB3075
To the Committee:

Criminals love gun-control laws. Being criminals, they can always obtain firearms on the black market, but law-abiding citizens will be left unable to defend their homes and businesses. That is why New York has experienced some of the highest gun violence rates in the nation, despite having some of the most stringent gun-control laws in the U.S. If we really want to reduce gun violence, we need to lock up violent offenders instead of following our current catch-and-release, revolving-door policies.

Sincerely,

William Burt, M.S.