The city of Port Orford supports Herd farms, this is a needed facility and is the only way for small cities to handle Bio-solids removal and disposal. Heard farms is a great help to the communities and necessary in order to function. We have looked into the cost of installing a system to handle the bio-solids in house, but it is not feasible. We are just too small of a community to afford the cost let alone the operation & maintenance. It is just cost prohibitive for a City with a population 1100 and Water and Waste-Water rates being already high.

Sincerely,,

Director of Public Works, City of Port Orford
