I support rebates for battery operated leaf blowers because they cause less harm than gas operated blowers. They are typically a lot quieter, and currently you cannot walk through my neighborhood during the day without hearing several gas blowers. It would be a burden on many professional landscapers (often one- or two-person companies) who will need to purchase new blowers when that legislation goes into effect. This rebate will incentivize a faster transition and offer more fairness in the process.
