The idea that a person would need to not only apply for the right to exercise a constitutional right but also to pay a huge sum of money to do so is completely unconstitutional. We have a perfectly good working system in place. This bill seems to be meant to discourage people from exercising their constitutional rights by creating undue process and expense. I am strongly opposed to this type of bill which infringes on the constitutional rights of Oregonians. Can you imagine if you had to apply and pay for a permit for free speech or the right exercise your own religion?
