For the party that complains about election interference there sure is a lot of support for a measure that was funded from out of state.

There is absolutely no reason that a constitutional right should be barred by a meager 0.71% vote when it takes two thirds of a senate or house vote to amend a constitutional right. The measure was misleading and this attempt to make it even worse is abhorrent.

Requiring a fee to exercise your rights in the US is ridiculous and will mostly hurt the poor. And like every other state that attempts this, the state of Oregon is going to waste millions of taxpayer funds fighting it's own citizens when there are so many things that are underfunded.

This kind of gun control does nothing to prevent gun violence and ultimately wastes time and money. This bill pretends to act as if the measure passed with overwhelming majority and that it's doing the citizens a favor by bypassing the setbacks in its implementation, and this is obviously not the case, regardless of how much this bill tries make believe.
