No more taxes. My suggestion: tighten your belts and start living like the rest of us who pay almost 50% of our wages to taxes already. Stop trying to be leaders (you're not) and start being representatives. Stop trying to implement academic responses by creating solutions to problems that don't exist and use common sense to solve problems as they arise. Oregon is in the top four most regulated states with more money spent per capita yet yield the lowest score in almost every metric against other states. Those metrics show that whist huge sums of money are spent on public employees who consistently fail in their ability to rise to the occasion taxes keep getting raised to pay them. In the private sector Oregon would go bankrupt and cease to exist. No more taxes.
