HB3075

Instead of placing additional restrictions on law-abiding citizens, we should focus on enforcing existing laws, addressing mental health issues, and improving our criminal justice system.

Gun control measures that primarily impact responsible gun owners while failing to deter criminal activity are misguided and counterproductive. If our goal is to enhance public safety, we must seek solutions that address the root causes of violence rather than imposing unnecessary burdens on those who simply wish to exercise their constitutional rights.

The Second Amendment is not up for negotiation. Any modifications to Ballot Measure 114 that further restrict firearm access represent an unconstitutional infringement, an ineffective policy, and an undue burden on law-abiding citizens. I respectfully urge this committee to stand in defense of our constitutional rights and reject these modifications.

Let us focus on real solutions, not political theatrics. The preservation of liberty requires vigilance, and I hope you will choose to uphold the freedoms that define our nation.

Respectfully submitted,

Grant Harris
