If you want to raise taxes and fishing license but close down a very important hatchery for the community and kill all the hatchery fish which will then kill the salmon population on that river completely you are stealing.

If you close the hatchery to raising the fish but then still put the salmon in the river and open it up just to obtain the hatchery fish when they return that would be more acceptable. Otherwise give the hatchery to the native tribes allow them to run and put salmon in the river and give them the right to dip net salmon on the river during periods of the season.
