I full heartedly support this measure. Cities should have a greater say about how the monies generated locally should be spent. Cities like Cannon Beach attract visitors by the mere fact of being naturally beautiful and being less than a 1.5 hour drive from the Portland metro area. We don't need to attract more visitors, what we do need is to insure our visitors have a good experience when they are here. Things like clean restrooms, well maintained streets and parking lots. It seems to me that it would be more equitable for cities to have a larger share of these tax dollars.
