Don't need to change the process of how candidates get elected. Primaries with winners of each primary going to the ballot with one candidate from each party has worked very well thank you. Just need to go back to voting in person on one election day and verify only legal votes are being counted. Elections are a sacred freedom guaranteed by our constitution for Americans by Americans. Unless you are an American citizen you should have no right to vote and oh by the way dead people shouldn't vote either. Voting used to be a very simple process but politicians continue to make it more and more complicated. Complications just make it more and more open for fraud and corruption.
