I believe this to be a lovely idea but if you want it to be a successful idea you need to have individuals who are active in the animal and livestock community have input on this. For us farm owners and responsible pet owners raising livestock is part of lives. Placing restrictions on our breeding programs isn't a simple straightforward process to be taken lightly. Dogs and cats in shelters are not from our programs, animals at auctions are not from our programs- it is the careless individuals that don't follow everyone of their animals around in the homes and farms they are placed in.
